

Business Training Solutions

Have you ever come back from a training class and spent more time figuring out how to apply your new knowledge to your work environment than actually using your new skills? Ever wonder why?

Project Management training shouldn't be one-size-fits-all. It should be tailored to your unique career or organization. It should help you apply what you've learned to your environment—quickly. When you train with Global Knowledge, you'll have ample opportunities for tailored Project Management training because they take a flexible approach to project management, business analysis, or professional skills training.

They address your actual business challenges in the classroom, which is more valuable than just theory and terminology. They provide tailored training. From bringing your own case study into a classroom course, to working with them to develop a customized, On-Site course, your class time will be pertinent to your business environment so you can get back to the job and be more productive. They support Rapid Skills Development. You'll leave their class with hands-on tools and templates, not to mention experience using your new skills in realistic situations through their role playing and skills practice exercises.

Flexible Delivery Methods

- Instructor-Led Classroom
- Self-Paced e-Learning
- Live Virtual Classroom e-Learning
- Blended Programs
- Mentoring Programs

Customization and Tailoring

- They can incorporate your templates, methodology, even develop a case study just for your needs
- They can capture the uniqueness of your organization in the custom courseware
- All of their customization efforts are aimed at helping to increase the skill development of their students
- You and your team will develop faster through training that incorporates your environment

Enterprise Program Roll-outs

Need to educate staff across the country or even around the world? Global Knowledge's worldwide footprint gives us the ability to bring the class to you, wherever you are. Cultural differences? Not a problem, they'll address cultural differences as needed. Concerned about managing the complexities of a roll-out? They can help there too by assigning a program manager to manage your entire rollout and keep the project and the students on track.
